

Mr\Ms President, ladies and gentlemen,

Imagine, for a moment, that our world is an orchestra. Each nation an individual instrument, with its unique tones and textures. The beauty of an orchestra lies not in the sound of a single instrument, but in how these diverse sounds blend together to create a harmonious symphony.

Community like IPU can play the role of the conductor for this orchestra. It ensures that every voice is heard, every melody acknowledged, and every instrument valued.

Likewise, our society thrives when every individual, regardless of background, ability, or circumstance, is empowered to contribute their unique notes to the whole society.

When we prioritize, we create an environment where creativity flourishes. Just as an orchestra requires synergy among its players, our communities become vibrant when we embrace diverse perspectives - whether they stem from different cultures, abilities, or life experiences.

Yet, achieving this orchestra is not without its challenges. Some instruments may find it difficult to join the symphony, be it due to systemic barriers, discrimination, or other social factors. It is our responsibility as members of this global orchestra to ensure that each instrument has the opportunity to play.

Let us remember that the greatest masterpieces in history have been created through collaboration and mutual respect. Together, if we can embrace the concept of inclusion – if each of us plays our part – imagine the symphony we could create!

A world where harmony replaces conflicts, understanding overcomes division, and every individual contributes to a beautiful, vibrant society.

Thank you
